

Is the program certified?

Our programs are certified by the United States Department of Labor Bureau of Apprenticeship and Training (US DOL BAT) and the Pennsylvania Apprenticeship and Training Council. Apprentices who complete the program will receive a journeyman certification from the Pennsylvania Apprenticeship and Training Council, as well as certification from the National Center for Construction Education and Research. The National Center for Construction Education and Research (NCCER) is the educational affiliate of Associated Builders and Contractors (ABC). It provides standardized curricula in craft training for training centers sponsoring apprenticeship programs throughout the United States. The NCCER program includes certification of instructors and accreditation of students. There is a standard system for national, industry-wide recognition: The National Craft Training Registry of the National Center for Construction Education and Research (NCCER). Through the accredited training programs of the NCCER, apprentices can learn the skills and gain the official recognition they will need to climb to the top. Several Universities apply ABC Apprenticeship Training credit toward a degree program. Contact Elizabeth Yorio (412) 231-1446 for more details.
